Kindergarten News

Mrs. Gardner's
kindergarten class has been very busy lately. The kindergartners have been studying about rain forests.
This month they went to a symphony at St. Mary's.
Their favorite part of the symphony was when the
instruments made sounds
like animals. The noises
sounded like penguins,
bugs, and dinosaurs, but
their favorite was the
alligator noises.

This month the
kindergartners have also
been learning how to write books. Some of the books

they wrote were about
springtime and rain forests.

Next month the
kindergartners will be
studying weather and plants
in science and parables in the Bible. They are going to learn subtraction in math.
They are also learning to
read. Alaina, Levi, D.J., and Andrew sent pictures to
the art fair.

for second grade. There are a lot of things about first graders you may want to know. Did you know that our school sent Naomi and Michael to the speech meet at Trinity? Naomi went for a poem and Michael went for Bible memorization. A lot of students had their art go to the art fair. Johanna won a blue in art, Naomi won blue and red in art, and Ben Adams won red in art.

Mrs. Carrillo's Classroom News

This past month the students in Mrs. Carrillo's first grade class got to watch the changes of a caterpillar to a chrysalis for science. The students were fascinated to watch the changes happen so rapidly from day to day.

In handwriting, the students are enthusiastic about the introduction to cursive writing in class.

They are in the spring unit now. The students will be trying out their 'green thumbs' on growing some flowers. They are looking forward to going to a creation seminar in May.

month. They have been watching their caterpillars grow two times in length from when they first got them. They got the caterpillars a week ago. Also they have butterflies that they have watched develop. They watched tiger swallow-tails and some tadpoles. Last, but not least, they just got an ant farm on Tuesday. They have been growing plants. The second grade has started to read chapter books. Next month they will go to Noah's Ark and read to the classes. The second grade has improved in their reading tremendously. When they study nutrition they are going to go to Runza for a nutrition feast. In math they are studying multiplication and division. Some field trips they will be taking are the creation assembly and the trip to the Golden Spikes baseball game with the school.

The sixth grade is studying complements in English. In history they are studying famous people involved with it. The sixth grade also just finished their nutrition project; the rat that was fed milk grew larger than the one that wasn't. They also did middle school chapel on the seventh of April. They finished reading enough books to put small book summaries all around the room and get a bowling party.

They are working on a U.S. quilt and a research paper. Next month they are planning to go to Mahoney State Park and a baseball game.

The end of school is coming too. Katie, Michelle, and Julia had some of their art go to a

Spotlight on Darius

I got the privilege of interviewing Darius Ikaika Tellez. He participates in T.Y.E

(Teen Youth Evangelism), sports and enjoys hanging out with his family. This summer he will play baseball and football.

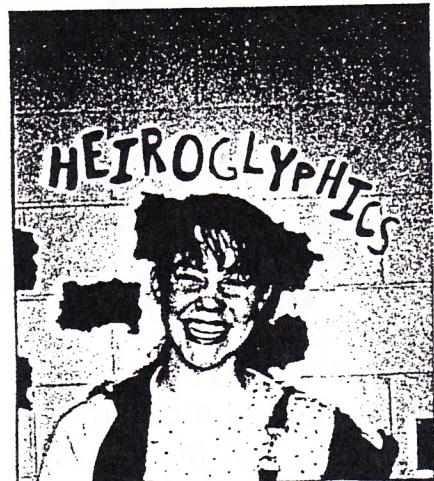

I asked him to finish this sentence, "Behind my back I hope people would say." He answered, "I admire his respect for God and others, and he loves his family." His best memory of school was the sixth grade retreat.

Someday he wants to go to California & Hawaii to visit his relatives. Darius is a very nice friend to have.

volleyball; she also played on our school volleyball team. When she was asked what she hoped people would say behind her back, she answered, "I hope people will think that I am a smart person." Her best memory of school is when she jumped in puddles on a prayer walk.

Her most embarrassing moment was when she was in kindergarten and she couldn't open the bathroom door at the park and she didn't make it in time.

One of his best memories of school is when Paul and Josh were asking him weird questions. One of his most embarrassing moments was when he accidentally walked into the bathroom while his aunt was in it [oops!] Well, that's all for his article. If you would like to learn more about Tim Huey talk to him, or visit your local library [maybe he'll be there.]

Miss Goertzen

Miss Tanya Marie

Goertzen loves her fourth grade class and teaching. She does have a life outside of school, though. She loves singing and music. In fact she and her sister are singing at the seventh grade teacher's wedding (renewing of her marriage vows). Her favorite animal is the dolphin. I asked her to finish this sentence, "Behind by back, I hope people would say..." She finished it, "...that they could see Jesus in everything I do." Her mother and she have a great relationship. She says, "Behind my back, I hope people would say that I am a radical Christian." Her best memory of school is when she had to do a 5th grade European history report. The biggest influences on her are her mom and her husband, Pastor Mark.

Silent Auction

Every year our school and Bellevue Christian Center put on the silent auction. For the last three years Mrs. Leslie Brady has been coordinating the silent auction. The silent auction is a huge event. It takes a small army close to eight and a half hours to set up the auction and three to four months planning. The Master's Commission (MC's) helped Mrs. Brady out a lot. We had around 450 donations this year and we made about $12,000. A new computer from Computer's to Go and a hand-made rocking horse were big items. The rocking horse sold for $575 and was crafted by Garland Menke.

The money we made will go to help the computer lab, a flag pole, and the playground. Mrs.

The Desert

The desert, the desert;
torrid and dry;

The arid winds carry a

The straight arrow runs

Reflected back by an invisible mirror.

The affluent sand that the
desert holds;

Its natural way, the things
it molds.

The straight arrow runs
representing grace;

The way grace goes and
comes back always.

No journalist or meteorologist can describe the
way;

The desert acts each day.

Daily the O, so lonely
desert can run;

From the giant rays of the sun.

The temperature reaches
150 degrees;

Heating all of the stuff
including debris.

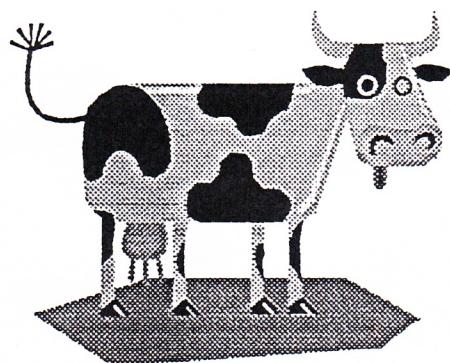

The desert is a very harsh
place;

Keeping tourists in a
grueling pace.
